Saving money is sometimes easier if we can actually see the money accumulating. On the next page you will find a 'Tis the Season Printable so you can label your jar or envelope and watch your holiday money grow each week!

ccording to a 2015 CompareCards survey, the average consumer spends about $650 during the holidays on travel, gifts, and entertainment. By starting in the summer, there's plenty of time to save enough for the holidays. This 26-week plan will help you save $650 by putting away some extra money each week. This savings plan ramps up your weekly savings amount up to October, then you save a little less each week during November and December, when unexpected expenses can make saving for the holidays more stressful.
